Hello,
As a psychologist who underwent licensing in this state in the past year, I strongly oppose combining the Board of Psychology and the Board of Behavioral Health. Combining these boards, which have different subspecialties, ethics codes, training requirements, and objective, would cause great confusion. With the recent decision to adopt PsyPact, it would also likely result in barriers to transferring licenses just as we were on the verge of smoothing that process out. The Board of Psychology has been working to streamline their processes and has made progress toward reducing its "red tape" in ways that does not result in ethical or professional difficulties. Thank you for your consideration.

I am writing to urge the Montana Licensing Reform Task Force to closely examine Montana's requirement that businesses providing roll-off dumpster services obtain a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity (PCN) from the Montana Public Service Commission before they can enter the market. This is an outdated law that has led to a monopoly and is crushing the small businesses that are trying to start up. PLEASE PLEASE LOOK INTO THIS. Sincerely a concerned citizen.

Hundreds Victimized, maybe even thousands if you include their families!

That is just those brave enough or capable enough (because the process is expensive and time consuming)! to navigate the seemingly purposefully confusing and difficult APPLICATION process. Just the application process, not the (if you are lucky) year long legal battle after that. With cases even going to the supreme court. The number of those suffering from this outdated law, turned corrupt monopoly is much much higher. My family is one of those suffering. When we moved to Montana almost a decade ago we did it for the freedom and American Values Montana is supposed to represent. We cant help where our parents decided to live and raise us but we can decide where we want to end up and start our own families. After traveling to 16 different states, we made our choice. MONTANA! Representing freedom, patriotism, community, and an overall if you pull yourself up from your bootstraps and work hard you can get anywhere mentality. Or so we thought. Because an outdated law passed in the great depression meant to help keep local garbage collectors in business so locals didn't just dispose of their trash in the woods due to rural locations being so far from the landfill has now turned into the very thing they strived to not become. Ironically, because of the very thing they are trying to gatekeep. Junk removal companies are not renewing trash services, that department has never been threatened. On the contrary, we are a step above. The things that cant be handled by those companies. Everyone we service has regular trash service as well. The cleanouts from an estate, the spring cleaning, the piles and piles that build up especially in rural counties. And again ironically, we have received testimonials of people tempted to throw it in the woods because the monopoly created has caused such an expensive, not easily accessible, and frankly unfair market and the everyday people can no longer have easy access to it. The very thing the law was trying to stop in the first place. Now us as a small company, we are not trying to become regular trash collectors. We are just passionate locals, wanting to help our rural communities and build a relationship...which we HAVE!! and are now being red taped by conglomerates and LAWYERS! If you look at the cases in the pending dockets you will see some are in limbo for almost a year or longer and the "protestors" are the monopoly companies, employees of those companies and the local lawyers. Is this the Montana you think of? Because for me its not a place that pushes down the small businesses trying to build something for their families and their community, its a place that allows us to do the opposite. SO PLEASE HELP US.

To Whom It May Concern,
The Montana Psychological Association would like to respectfully express our concerns regarding the proposed consolidation of the Montana Board of Behavioral Health (BOBH) and the Montana Board of Psychologists (BOP). As Montana Psychologists we do not believe the consolidation of our BOBH and BOP, will protect the public, or reduce unnecessary barriers related to licensing and regulation.

Psychology is a distinct profession with unique training, ethical standards, and scope of practice. Montana Psychologists have complex skills honed from years of education, training, and experience. It is imperative that self-regulation through our individual professional board remains intact. Having the Montana Board of Psychologists (MBP) ensures that Psychologists are judged by those who have expert knowledge of our field and can maintain high professional standards. Professionals who are not Psychologists do not have the same training or expertise. Psychologists have complex specialties (e.g. forensic evaluation, neuropsychology, industrial-organizational, school psychology, health psychology) that require peer review to determine if a psychologist acted within their proper scope of practice. It would be unethical to have an individual create the standards, discipline, ethics, determine licensing for individual's who have a different scope of practice than themselves.

The Montana Board of Psychologists (MBP) protects the public and clients of Psychologists by recognizing when peers are cutting corners, breaking rules, and engaging in behaviors that endanger the public. BOP creates public safety by ensuring expert Psychologists are monitoring and addressing issues that arise with licensees. BOP provides the public and licensees with credible and fair investigations into professional misconduct. The BOP is able to judge subtle risks and navigate complex professional issues that may look harmless to someone who is not a Psychologist.

The Montana Board of Psychologists is funded by the psychologists it licenses. On July 7, 2026, the Board of Psychologists sought input from people who would be affected by the consolidation of BOBH and BOP. The input that was given by licensees was that they did not want the boards consolidated. After this meeting, the BOP voted to seek permission from Governor Gianforte to formally oppose the proposal.

If the Montana Board of Psychologists and the Montana Board of Behavioral Health are combined, risk to the public could increase. The Montana Board of Behavioral Health is already large and oversees clinical professional counselors (LCPC), clinical social workers (LCSW), licensed marriage and family therapists (LMFT), addiction counselors (LAC), and peer support specialists. The last public board book for the Montana Board of Behavioral Health was 388 pages while the last Board of Psychologists public board book was 15 pages. The public considers Psychologists to be leaders in the field of mental health, assessment, and scientific study. It is imperative that the board responsible for licensing Psychologists has the expertise, scope of practice, training, and ability to regulate and maintain the high standards the public expects.

To Whom It May Concern:

The Montana Psychological Association respectfully expresses its concerns regarding the proposed consolidation of the Montana Board of Behavioral Health (BOBH) and the Montana Board of Psychologists (BOP). As Montana psychologists, we do not believe consolidating the BOBH and BOP will protect the public or reduce unnecessary barriers related to licensing and regulation.

Psychology is a distinct profession with unique training, ethical standards, and scope of practice. Montana psychologists have complex skills honed through years of education, training, and experience. It is imperative that self-regulation through our individual professional board remain intact. The Montana Board of Psychologists ensures that psychologists are judged by those who have expert knowledge of our field and can maintain high professional standards. Professionals who are not psychologists do not have the same training or expertise. Psychologists have complex specialties - including forensic evaluation, neuropsychology, industrial-organizational psychology, school psychology, and health psychology - that require peer review to determine whether a psychologist acted within the proper scope of practice. It would be inappropriate and potentially unethical for individuals to establish standards, discipline, ethics, and licensing requirements for professionals whose scope of practice differs from their own.

The Montana Board of Psychologists protects the public and clients by recognizing when peers cut corners, break rules, or engage in conduct that endangers the public. The BOP creates public safety by ensuring expert psychologists monitor and address issues involving licensees. It provides the public and licensees with credible and fair investigations into professional misconduct. The BOP can identify subtle risks and navigate complex professional issues that may appear harmless to someone who is not a psychologist.

The Montana Board of Psychologists is funded by the psychologists it licenses. On July 7, 2026, the Board sought input from people who would be affected by consolidation of the BOBH and BOP. Licensees who provided input opposed consolidation. Following the meeting, the BOP voted to seek permission from Governor Gianforte to formally oppose the proposal.

Combining the Montana Board of Psychologists and the Montana Board of Behavioral Health could increase risk to the public. The Board of Behavioral Health is already large and oversees licensed clinical professional counselors (LCPCs), licensed clinical social workers (LCSWs), licensed marriage and family therapists (LMFTs), licensed addiction counselors (LACs), and peer support specialists. Its most recent public board book was 388 pages, while the most recent Board of Psychologists public board book was 15 pages. The public considers psychologists leaders in mental health, assessment, and scientific study. It is imperative that the board responsible for licensing psychologists have the expertise, training, and capacity to regulate the profession and maintain the high standards the public expects.

Respectfully,

WanmdiWi Rose, Ph.D.

President, Montana Psychological Association
